🌀 All are Welcome! 🌀

Guided by Board members and analysts affiliated with the Center, but with the aim of having a group discussion, participants will explore the fundamental transformation to which Jung refers in Symbols of Transformation: the divinity of instinct, the dangers of blindly following instinct, the necessity of bold deliverance from fear and instinct, the consequences to life's meaning in the absence of this deliverance, the sacrifice necessitated by this deliverance, and the importance of assuming the sacrifice voluntarily and with conscious awareness of its profundity.

At the Annual Event, along with a Book Sale, we are going to host a discussion of sections of one of Jung's seminal chapters in what represents his clear-cut break with Freud, the fifth volume of his Collected Works, Symbols of Transformation. A number of noted Jungian experts (among them, Edward Edinger and James Hollis) consider some of the paragraphs in this work's chapter on The Dual Mother to be the essence of Jungian thought.

Participants will be asked to read the materials prior to this event and they will be made available on the website, where you will also find questions to consider. While they may seem perplexing at first, participants are encouraged to absorb them several times, as a result of which their significance will coalesce into deeply meaningful reflections.
